

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Clock and data regenerator with demultiplexer function wherein the clock and phase generator operates with four sampling flip-flops whose output signals are compared with one another with the aid of two pairs of EXOR elements. The 5 associated phase signals generated by the EXOR elements are added and compared with one another. The phase regulating voltage thus obtained controls an oscillator which generates the sampling clock signals.